EXPLANATORY STATEMENT

The Goods and Services Tax Bill 2009 (“the proposed Act”) seeks to provide for the imposition and collection of goods and services tax (GST) and for matters connected therewith. The GST is a broad-based consumption tax based on a value-added concept. With the coming into operation of section 9 and Parts XVI and XVII of the proposed Act (“the appointed date”), the GST will replace the sales tax and the service tax currently imposed and collected under the Sales Tax Act 1972 and the Service Tax Act 1975. Unlike the present sales tax which is a single stage tax, the GST is a multi-stage tax. Payment of tax is made in stages by the intermediaries in the production and distribution process. The tax itself is not a cost to the intermediaries and does not appear as an expense item in their financial statements.

GST covers all sectors of the industry and is a tax on final consumption of goods and services. It is collected through a credit system where GST incurred on inputs is offset against GST charged on outputs.

2. Part I of the proposed Act deals with preliminary matters.

Clause 1 provides for the short title and the power of the Minister to appoint the date of commencement of the proposed Act.

Clause 2 contains the definitions of the words and expressions used in the proposed Act.

Clause 3 seeks to provide for the general meaning of business in the proposed Act which includes the activities of clubs and similar organizations, and paid admission into premises. This clause also seeks to extend the meaning of business to include the termination of business and disposal of assets or transfer of business as a going concern to be a supply made in the course or furtherance of business, but excludes employment under contracts of service and hobbies.

Clause 4 seeks to provide for the meaning of supply and the supply of goods or the supply of services, as well as matters that are to be treated as a supply of goods or a supply of services as listed in the First Schedule and matters that are to be treated as neither a supply of goods nor a supply of services as listed in the Second Schedule. This clause also gives power to the Minister to amend the First and Second Schedules.

3. Part II sets out the administration of the GST.

Clause 5 seeks to provide that the Director General has superintendence over all matters relating to GST. Officers of customs with the rank of Superintendent or higher shall have and exercise all the powers of the Director General other than excepted powers.

Clause 6 seeks to require officers of goods and services tax to identify themselves when performing their duties and any person may refuse an order made by the officers if they do not identify themselves. This clause also provides that unlawfully wearing, using, possessing or displaying an authority card or badge of an officer of goods and services tax is an offence.

Clause 7 seeks to provide that all officers of goods and services tax shall be deemed to be public servants.

Clause 8 deals with the confidentiality of all documents handled by officers of goods and services tax or any other government officers having official duties. It shall be an offence for any person who misuses any information or documents other than for the purposes of carrying on his duties. This clause allows the officer of goods and services tax not to divulge any information or document to any person except in the course of carrying out his duties as an officer of goods and services tax or in the case of prosecution of an offence in court. The Director General may share information with the Director General of Inland Revenue and the Chief Statistician in the performance of his official government duties. This clause also gives the power to the Minister to disclose any information or document to any person he deems fit.

4. Part III contains provisions relating to the imposition and scope of tax.

Clause 9 seeks to provide for the chargeability of tax on any taxable supply made in Malaysia by a taxable person in the course or furtherance of business and includes goods and services supplied locally as well as imported. This clause places the liability of tax on the person who makes the supply and provides for GST to be charged and payable on all importation of goods into Malaysia as if it were customs duty.

Clause 10 seeks to provide for the tax to be charged on the value of the supply or importation based on the rate of tax as determined by the Minister. This clause provides for the procedure in fixing the tax rate and a refund of tax may be made under specified conditions.

Clause 11 seeks to provide for the time of supply rules for the purposes of chargeability of tax and determines the general time of supply rules for goods and services. It also determines the time of supply to be triggered when a tax invoice is issued or payment is received whichever is the earlier. The time of supply is the date the invoice is issued if the invoice is issued within 21 days after the supply is made. This clause allows the Director General to determine the time of supply under special circumstances such as when goods are transferred or disposed of and privately used, one-off use or as and when it is used. This clause also provides for the special time of supply rules under certain circumstances and the application of special time of supply rules for supply made separately and successively as prescribed under the regulations to be made under the proposed Act.

Clause 12 seeks to provide for the place of supply rules for the purpose of chargeability of tax and determines the place of supply for goods. The place of supply is in Malaysia if the supply is made from a place in Malaysia to another place in Malaysia or if the goods are removed from a place in Malaysia to a place outside Malaysia. The place of supply is treated to be outside Malaysia if the goods are brought in from a place outside Malaysia. This clause also determines the place of supply for services. If the supplier belongs in Malaysia then the place of supply is in Malaysia.

Clause 13 sets out the treatment of imported services as a supply by and to the recipient and the manner of accounting for tax on imported services by a taxable person and any person other than a taxable person.

Clause 14 seeks to determine the country where the supplier or recipient of services belongs based on his business or fixed establishment or his usual place of residence in that country. This clause also seeks to provide for any business establishment to be regarded as belonging in Malaysia if the business establishment has a branch or agency in Malaysia.

Clause 15 seeks to provide the rules in determining the value of supply except as provided for in the Third Schedule that is the value of supply to be the consideration in money excluding tax. It also provides for the value of supply (which includes excise duty) to be determined by using the open market value under certain circumstances where there is no consideration or the consideration is not wholly in money. Where the consideration covers more than one supply, the clause seeks to require apportioning the consideration received that is attributable to the supply. This clause seeks to empower the Minister to amend the Third Schedule and to determine the value of supply under special circumstances.

Clause 16 seeks to provide for the computation of value of goods imported for the purpose of charging GST.

Clause 17 seeks to empower the Minister to treat any supply of goods or services as a zero-rated supply by way of an order published in the Gazette. The supply of goods if the goods are exported is also treated as a zero-rated supply. The supply of goods or services which are zero-rated shall be treated as a taxable supply and shall be charged at zero per cent and in the case of goods imported into Malaysia no tax is to be charged. This clause provides for the liability to pay tax and the seizure of goods that are claimed to have been exported but found in Malaysia.

Clause 18 seeks to empower the Minister to determine any supply of goods or services to be an exempt supply by way of an order published in the Gazette whereby no tax is to be charged on the exempt supply and the exempt supply goods which are imported into Malaysia.

5. Part IV sets out the provisions for the registration of taxable persons.

Clause 19 seeks to provide for the general provisions for the registration of taxable persons. It also provides for any reference to a supply to be confined to a supply made for business purposes and that the value of the supply would be taken as tax exclusive.

Clause 20 seeks to empower the Minister to determine the threshold level for mandatory registration by way of an order published in the Gazette. This clause provides for the computation of annual turnover for the purposes of determining the liability to be registered. The value of supplies made during the period in which the taxable person was previously registered for the purposes of calculating the annual turnover is excluded. The value of sale of capital assets, imported services and supplies made within or between designated areas for the purpose of determining the liability to be registered is also excluded. This clause also provides for the use of a prescribed form in making an application to be registered.

Clause 21 seeks to require a person to notify his liability to register within 28 days from the end of his liability to register and the registration date to start on the first day after the month in which he makes the notification to register or an earlier date as may be agreed. This clause also requires a person to notify his liability to the Director General within 28 days from the date when the business is transferred and Director General shall register him accordingly. The Director General may predetermine a registration date if the person fails to notify his liability to register. Any reference to registration of persons shall refer to registration in a register kept by the Director General. If a person fails to register within the stipulated period he shall be liable to pay late registration penalty based on a specified percentage rate.

Clause 22 deals with the cessation of a person's liability to be registered. This clause further provides that the liability to register does not cease if the person's annual turnover has not exceeded the threshold due to expected cessation of making taxable supplies or suspension of making taxable supplies for 30 days or more. It excludes the value of sale of capital assets and imported services for the purpose of determining the end of liability to be registered.

Clause 23 seeks to empower the Director General to direct two or more taxable persons to be registered as a single taxable person. It explains the determination of artificial separation of business to take into consideration the extent of financial, economic and organizational links. The Director General shall make the direction subject to certain conditions specified. Each direction is to be served on every person named. This clause also gives power to the Director General to direct another person other than those persons named in the earlier direction. Upon the revocation of a registered person (to end his liability) if he is named as one of the persons in the direction, he together with all other persons shall be registered as a single taxable person. The persons named in the direction are to be known as constituent members after they are registered. It stipulates the responsibilities of the single taxable person and the treatment of constituent members as a partnership. The Director General may disregard a person to be a constituent member and that person shall cease to have any liability after he has ceased to be a member of the partnership.

Clause 24 seeks to allow for voluntary registration of any person who is not liable to be registered, subject to certain conditions. Upon registration, the person shall remain to be registered for a period of not less than two years. This clause also allows for voluntary registration of a person who makes or intends to make a taxable supply outside Malaysia. This clause provides for the use of a prescribed form in making the application to be registered and enables the Director General to cancel the registration of a person if he does not make a taxable supply by the stipulated date or he has breached any conditions imposed.

Clause 25 seeks to require a person to notify the Director General within a stipulated period if he ceases to make a taxable supply or intends to cease making a taxable supply.

Clause 26 seeks to allow the Director General to cancel a person's registration upon request or notification if he is satisfied that such person can be deregistered. This clause also allows the Director General to cancel the person's registration if he is satisfied that the person has ceased to be registrable effective from the date he so ceases or such later date or if he is neither liable nor eligible to be registered.

Clause 27 seeks to allow two or more companies to apply for group registration if certain conditions are satisfied. The registration of the group shall be in the name of the representative member. This clause further provides for the treatment of supplies between members of a group and the joint liability of every member of a group.

Clause 28 seeks to provide for the registration of partnership in the name of the firm and that any changes in the partnership shall not affect the registration and accounting for tax. A partner is liable for any tax due unless he notifies that he has ceased to be a partner. This clause also seeks to provide that any service of notice to the firm during the taxable period in which the partner is liable shall be treated as having been served on him although he has ceased to be a partner. Further, the serving of notice to the firm shall be deemed to have been served on a partnership. Any notice given by any partner shall be deemed as a notice given by all partners of the firm.

Clause 29 seeks to provide for the registration of societies and similar organizations. Any change in the members shall not affect the registration and accounting for tax. It also provides for the joint and several responsibility of the principal office bearers and any member of a committee.

Clause 30 deals with the registration of businesses carried on in branches or divisions and the conditions and requirements for the registration of business carried on by branches or divisions. The Director General shall terminate the registration if they breach certain conditions and also determine the date of termination of registration. This clause provides for a taxable person to apply for the termination of registration effective from the date of application or a later date as determined by Director General and the taxable person shall remain registered for a period of not less than two years unless the Director General otherwise allows.

Clause 31 seeks to allow the Director General to deem a personal representative carrying on business on behalf of a taxable person as a taxable person himself and limits the tax liability of the personal representative to the extent of control of the business assets. This clause requires the personal representative to notify the Director General, within 21 days from the date the personal representative takes over, the fact of the death, liquidation, receivership, bankruptcy or incapacity. It also requires the personal representative to set aside an amount sufficient to pay tax or penalty. The personal representative shall be personally liable in the event he fails to notify or pay the tax or penalty and, in case of two or more personal representatives, they shall be jointly and severally liable.

Clause 32 seeks to exempt a taxable person from registration if he makes wholly a zero-rated supply and requires any person who is exempted from registration to notify the Director General within 30 days from the date of any change in the nature of his supply.

6. Part V contains provisions on accounting, assessment and recovery of tax.

Clause 33 seeks to require a registered person to issue a tax invoice stating the amount payable excluding tax, the rate of tax and the total tax chargeable separately. However, it exempts a registered person from issuing a tax invoice and allows omission of any prescribed particulars under certain conditions. It also provides the issuance of a self-billed invoice subject to the approval of the Director General. This clause also seeks to prohibit the issuance of a tax invoice for second-hand goods and supply of imported services.

Clause 34 seeks to allow tax invoices to be transmitted or made available by electronic means.

Clause 35 seeks to require both the supplier and recipient to make adjustments if the supplier issues a credit note or debit note.

Clause 36 seeks to require a taxable person to keep records in relation to his tax liability in Malaysia either in the national or English language for 7 years. This clause also seeks to allow for the preservation of records or information in the manner approved by the Director General. Such records shall be admissible as evidence in any proceedings.

Clause 37 seeks to require a taxable person to account for tax at the time of supply and subject to the Director General's approval, allow a registered person to account for tax on payment basis. It also empowers the Minister to make regulations for tax adjustments in respect of the change of accounting basis.

Clause 38 seeks to allow a taxable person to deduct his input tax from the output tax in the return. This clause seeks to treat flat rate addition as input tax and also limit the proportion of tax which is attributable to business to be counted as input tax. It also allows the Director General to refund any credit or credit that exceeds the output tax and allows any credit due to be carried forward to the next taxable period either by application or as directed by the Director General. The Director General shall withhold the refund if a taxable person fails to comply with any obligation under the proposed Act or request made by the Director General. This clause also provides the time frame for the Director General to make a refund and requires a taxable person to account any input tax that has been credited or refunded as his output tax if he fails to pay the consideration to the supplier. It allows a taxable person to claim back his input tax if he has subsequently paid the consideration to the supplier. This clause further excludes certain supply of goods or services from any input tax credit.

Clause 39 seeks to restrict the amount of input tax as credit for the purposes of making certain supplies only and provides certain exempt supply to be treated as taxable supply subject to the prescribed conditions.

Clause 40 seeks to allow the Director General to assign the category of taxable period for the taxable person and assign a different category of taxable period based on application or by direction. This clause provides for a default taxable period and allows the Director General to vary the taxable period.

Clause 41 seeks to require a taxable person to account for tax in a return and furnish it within the stipulated time. A person who has been approved a varied taxable period has to submit a return within 30 days from the end of each varied taxable period. A taxable person shall submit a final return within the stipulated period in the event of deregistration and pay any tax due. This clause also requires a taxable person to pay for the tax and to furnish a return whether or not there is tax to be paid. It also provides for contravention of this clause to be an offence.

Clause 42 seeks to require a person other than a taxable person to account for tax in a declaration and furnish it within the stipulated time. This clause requires a person other than a taxable person to pay for the tax. It also provides for the contravention of this clause to be an offence.

Clause 43 seeks to allow the Director General to assess the amount of tax payable if a taxable person fails to apply for registration, fails to furnish a return or furnishes an incomplete or incorrect return. This clause limits the time frame of not more than 6 years after the end of a taxable period for the Director General to make an assessment except in cases of fraud. It also allows the Director General to make an assessment where goods are not supplied or exported unless the taxable person can prove that the goods are lost or destroyed. The Director General shall increase the amount of tax assessed in the case where a taxable person pays tax according to the assessed amounts but continually fails to submit returns. This clause further deems the assessed amount to be the correct tax that is due from the taxable person unless the assessment is subsequently withdrawn or reduced. This clause also allows the Director General to make a supplementary assessment in excess of an earlier assessment and amend the assessment to ensure the correctness of his assessment.
